

New Information Technology Tools for Manufacturing

The challenge is always how to do more with LESS - With LESS resources, LESS manpower, LESS time. We still want to produce high quality products at a competitive price. Finding our competitive advantage is getting harder and harder to do.

A solution is to create an information advantage. Make our companies work smarter with the multitude of information technologies out there. Create systems that helps us get the information we need faster, easier, and without repetition. This session will touch on how we might go about doing this and 3 factors that we can focus on for success in this quest.
